

URGENT WEATHER ANNOUNCEMENT

Listen up, South Carolina! The meteorologists have whispered the "S-word," which means it's time for the sacred local tradition: sprinting to the grocery store to buy enough milk and bread to make 400 sandwiches you probably won't eat.

While you're busy preparing for the 48-hour "snow-pocalypse" (which will likely melt by lunch on Tuesday), we want to make sure your agency isn't left out in the cold.

Just in case our "Winter Wonderland" actually leaves behind more than a light dusting, we've got your back with new state term contracts for:

- Debris Removal and Monitoring Services (Because trees aren't meant to be horizontal).
- Learn more here: <https://www.procurement.sc.gov/contracts/search?d=24915-9919-0-0>

Check out the full list of resources on the South Carolina Procurement Services website.

We hope this is a PSA you never have to use. But if things get messy, we're here to help you clean up!

Stay safe, bundle up, and try not to eat all those "milk sandwiches" at once!
